United States Would Prefer to Have Dominion Governments at Arms Conference

ENGLAND WOULD SEND SIX

Canada Especially Wants to Be Heard on Questions of International Note

By David Lawrence
Copyright 1921 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—News from England indicates that Great Britain will have six members on her delegation to the armament conference. If this is her wish, it will be granted and every other delegation will be increased from four to six members.

Of course America hasn't anything to say about the personnel of other delegations and has not attempted to limit the size beyond the general statement that the delegations ought to be small so as to permit of effective transaction of business. But it is a fact that American opinion as gauged by those in authority here indicates a desire to have the dominions of the British empire represented somehow in the British delegation.

In the interests of better relations between the various English-speaking countries it had been hoped that the British cabinet would invite the premiers of Canada, New Zealand, South Africa and Australia or their representatives to sit in the armament conference as a part of the British delegation.

Many of the problems which will be discussed at the conference on far eastern questions are vitally related to Canada, New Zealand and Australia. The United States would like to be apprised directly of the views of those countries and to make sure that the representatives of those nations are informed first hand in Washington of the details of policy of the Washington government. Indeed, far more than appears on the surface, the conference is destined to have an important bearing on the relations between the United States and the British empire. It is significantly recalled here that the whole parley is the direct sequel of the Imperial dominion conference when the opposition to the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance developed on the part of the British dominions coincident with the expressions of the American press against the continuation of that pact.

The first cable dispatch from London would seem to indicate that not a single representative of the British dominions will be on the British delegation. This has occasioned much disappointment here. At first it was supposed that this may be due to a resistance on the part of Britain to have her dominion governments discuss foreign policy with other powers but the prominent part taken by General Smuts of South Africa in the Paris conference as well as the successor of the British government in securing representation in the assembly of the League of Nations for its dominions would seem to offset that impression. For years there has been agitation on the part of the Canadian people for a commissioner in Washington. In principle this plan has met with approval here but while the British government might not object to a Canadian commissioner in Washington, who they approve of as an American commissioner in Ottawa? Although there is no parallel between the importance of Egypt over which England maintains a protectorate on the one hand and Canada on the other, it is a fact that an American commissioner possessing virtually diplomatic powers has been resident in Cairo for years. The whole problem is one of the delicate points between the United States and Great Britain which it had been expected here would be settled before the big conference began.

Meanwhile speculation is developing as to which additional two members of the United States delegation will be if the members of all delegations is increased from four to six. It is assumed that another Democrat will be chosen. John W. Davis, former American Ambassador to Great Britain, is especially familiar with the problems to come before the conference and is not known as a partisan Democrat. His name is being mentioned repeatedly as a probable choice. Robert Lansing, former secretary of state, is another Democrat who is eligible, although it is said he has already been engaged by the Chinese government as an adviser. As for the Republican member, John Bassett Moore, recently selected as a justice of the new World court, is spoken of for a place on the commission while gossip at the Capitol is that Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, a former secretary of state, might be added to the American delegation.

MILWAUKEE PRIEST HOME FROM VISIT TO VATICAN

Milwaukee—Archbishop Sebastian G. Messmer of this city, arrived here last night after touring Europe for several months, during which time he visited his home in Switzerland and conferred with the pope.

He returned several weeks before he expected as the result of the desire of Milwaukeeans to hold a celebration on October 5 in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination. The anniversary was celebrated in Switzerland more than a month ago when his brothers, both in the priesthood, held services for him in the town where he was ordained.

Bathtubs Also Will Be Taboo, Profs Predict

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Ill.—"Mother may I take a bath?"
"Yes, my darling daughter. Hang your clothes on the Morris chair, but don't go near the tub."
For the bath tub is an exceedingly dirty and dangerous object for daughter to climb into, according to scientists at Northwestern university.
"All the bath tub does is disseminate 100,000,000 germs from one's body into the water, warm them and send many of them much invigorated back into the pores," an announcement by the department of bacteriology at the Evanston institution declared.
"As the public drinking fountain gave way to the bubbling fountain, the bath tub must give way to the shower."

ARBUCKLE HEARING NOW IN PROGRESS

Damaging Testimony is Expected to be Introduced Against Comedian

By M. D. Tracy
By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco, Calif.—Evidence that Roscoe Arbuckle, movie comedian, assaulted Virginia Rappe in an inhuman manner, causing injuries which resulted in her death, will be produced at his preliminary hearing on a murder charge Friday. District Attorney Brady announced.

Al Stennacher, Miss Rappe's manager and formerly Arbuckle's close friend, is expected to make this accusation on the witness stand.

Mrs. Bambine Maud Delmont who swore to the murder complaint against Arbuckle and Miss Zoy Prevon, show girl, also were summoned as witnesses today.

Miss Prevon was to be questioned concerning the details of the gin jollification that preceded the alleged assault on Miss Rappe. Mrs. Delmont will cover the same ground.

Chief Counsel Frank Dominguez and the other defense attorneys Friday were planning to secure Arbuckle's release through medical testimony.

Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle who came here from New York to join her husband, when he was accused, said she would be at his side in the courtroom today. He seemed greatly encouraged by her presence yesterday. They frequently whispered together. The courtroom yesterday was jammed with women who heard physicians testify that there were many bruises on the body of Miss Rappe.

MOONSHINERS OWE MILLIONS IN TAX

Chicago, Ill.—Millions of dollars in taxes will be assessed against owners of contraband liquor after which prosecution will follow, it was learned here Friday. International revenue taxes on liquor have never been repealed.

The flying squadron of twenty federal agents that "mopped up" New York Indianapolis and Chicago, was sent out from Washington to assess taxes and get evidence for prosecution, the United Press was reliably informed.

The squadron is scheduled to "mop up" San Francisco next, it was said.

Shoots Heiress, Then Turns Gun On Herself

Woman Crazy With Liquor and "High Life" Attempts to Take Life of Miss Mildred Hanan—Jealousy Deemed Cause.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Driven mad by the "high life" of New York, Mrs. Grace Lawes of San Francisco early Friday shot and seriously wounded Miss Mildred Hanan, 24, heiress of the A. P. Hanan millions and then committed suicide.

The shooting occurred on the sidewalk of Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, as Miss Hanan and John S. Borland, an exporter emerged from the residence of a friend where they had spent the evening.

Mrs. Lawes who was an old chum of Miss Hanan, suddenly confronted them and started shooting. Miss Hanan, with bullets in the arm and chest ran a few yards and then collapsed on a door step.

The other woman put the muzzle of the pistol in her mouth and pulled the trigger. She fell dead in an arway.

Police found Borland sitting beside the millionaire on the doorstep, trying to staunch the flow of blood from her wounds.

Miss Hanan whose father the late A. P. Hanan made a fortune in the shoe manufacturing business was taken to a hospital where she was operated on shortly before noon today. Her chances for recovery are slim.

The first theory was that Mrs. Lawes was in a jealous frenzy when she tried to kill Miss Hanan. It was learned that Borland had been friendly with both women, that the women had quarreled and that for several days Miss Hanan had been in fear of an attack from a "crazy woman."

A few days ago she told a policeman authorities learned that a "crazy woman" with a pistol was following her in a taxicab.

Letters written by Mrs. Lawes shortly before shooting were made public today. They throw more light on Mrs. Lawes state of mind, showing that she was unbalanced by her life in New York.

A letter to her mother, Mrs. M. E. Dittmar, 316 Walnut street, San Francisco said: "Mother darling: 'You never can understand what I have been through here. Don't try to learn. It is past. Too much high life. The pace is too fast and the liquor has driven me crazy dear. Forgive and forget and remember, pray for my soul. Lovingly, —Grace—'

San Francisco, Calif.—"It was only a few days ago that I received a letter from Grace saying she was happy in the fact that she had introduced Borland and Miss Hanan," Mrs. M. E. Dittmar, sister of Grace Lawes who committed suicide after wounding Mildred Hanan in New York, said Friday.

"She said she was hopeful of arranging a match between them. 'All this talk about jealousy being the cause of the shooting is untrue,' she said. 'Why, Borland was 30 and Grace was 34 and Grace was planning to marry Borland to Mildred."

GERMAN PACT GOES BEFORE SENATE TODAY

Reservations Denoting Partial Borah Victory Attacked by Committee

MEANS TROOP WITHDRAWAL

Treaties of Germany, Austria and Hungary Will Be Pushed to Decision

By Fraser Edwards
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—The new peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary virtually amended by two reservations were placed before the senate Friday for ratification by the senate foreign relations committee.

Senator Borah who has made a determined fight against the treaties on the grounds that they will involve the United States in European affairs, was the only committee member to vote against reporting the treaties to the senate.

Three Democrats voted for reporting the treaties, indicating that prompt action may be had in the senate, although Borah indicated he would carry his fight to the senate floor.

The first reservation adopted prohibits American membership on the reparations commission or any other international organizations without the explicit consent of congress. This was offered by Senator Brandegee, Connecticut.

The second reservation, offered by Senator Pomerene, Ohio, makes it certain that the property rights of American citizens and the federal government will not be jeopardized by the treaties.

The reporting of the treaties followed assurance from high administration officials that the American troops in Germany will be withdrawn immediately following exchange of ratifications of the treaty with Germany.

Senator Borah apparently has won the first skirmish in his spectacular fight.

The "irreconcilable" leader within two days has caused Senator Lodge, Senate Republican leader, to indicate that reservations to meet the former's objections may be necessary.

Borah virtually is demanding that two Lodge reservations to former President Wilson's treaty be attached to the Harding pact and Republican senate leaders are finding it embarrassing to oppose him.

Borah's contentions around which which the discussion of reservations revolve are:

1.—The United States would be morally if not legally bound to maintain troops in Germany for an indefinite period under the terms of the treaty.

2.—The United States would be involved in European political affairs for years. Should the executive appoint Americans to sit on international bodies set up under the Versailles treaty.

The persons believed to have lost their lives are:

Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis; Mr. and Mrs. Simon Lewis and two children, Geo. Fiel and a small girl.

Adam Lewis, whose parents are believed to have been on the ill-fated yacht, said he knew his parents were lost and that he would start search for their bodies.

SEVEN THOUSAND ENTER STATE "U"

Madison.—Despite the industrial depression and continued rumors that the enrollment at Wisconsin university would be below the 7,000 mark, it was reported here this morning that there is every indication the enrollment would be more than 7,000.

Some 2,000 new students were welcomed this morning by Gov. John J. Blaine, President E. A. Birge and other university officials. The welcome was held on the upper campus and the upper classmen formed the "receiving" line through which all "fresh" marched on their way to the crest of the hill.

Many students are finding it a difficult proposition to find part time employment which will enable them to continue their schooling. It was learned from university officials that this year is the hardest in years for students to find part time work.

Mrs. Mahoney, who owned valuable property in Minnesota, was killed a few months after her marriage.

PRESIDENT PLANS CABINET CHANGES

Economy and Efficiency is Harding's Aim in Reorganizing Department Work

By Raymond Clapper
Washington, D. C.—President Harding soon will take up personally the task of reorganizing government departments.

Framed to bring more economy and efficiency, a complete plan involving abolition of some cabinet jobs and creation of new ones will be placed in his hands shortly by Walter F. Brown, the president's representative on the congressional reorganization committee.

After Harding goes over the plans with Brown, they will be laid before the cabinet for discussion. After revision the plan will be sent to congress where alterations of a more extensive nature are anticipated.

Major proposals of Brown are said to be:

Creation of an executive secretary who would be virtually an assistant to the president relieving both the president and his secretary of routine work.

Creation of a department of national defense to combine the army and navy.

Transfer of the prohibition enforcement division from the treasury to the department of justice.

Abolition of the department of labor and assimilation of most of its functions into the department of public welfare.

OCEAN STEAMSHIP WRECKED IN STORM

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—First word of a shipwreck in the Atlantic on the southern steamship lanes was received here Friday in a wireless from the steamer Cabo Cruz that it was bringing in thirty survivors.

Captain Juan Zalvidea of the Cabo Cruz enroute here from Seville sent the following radio:

"Will arrive Sunday twenty-fifth with thirty shipwreck victims."

The Ybarra line, owners of the ship, immediately wirelessed for more details.

Terrific storms lashed the Atlantic this week, severely buffeting the big liner. The ship which was lost probably went down in this hurricane.

Peculiar dental work and a watch made possible the identification.

MINERS SIDE WITH LEWIS IN DISPUTE OVER ACCOUNTING

Vote to Compel Farrington to Account for $27,000 Strike Expenditure

By United Press Leased Wire
Indianapolis, Ind.—The United Mine Workers convention Friday sustained the conservative element by an overwhelming vote.

The test came on the question of adopting President Lewis' report which was amended to instruct Frank Farrington and other Illinois district officers to itemize the expenditure of $27,000 in suppression of a "wild cat" strike at Belleville.

There was a weak chorus of "no's" when Vice President Phil Murray called for the negative vote. The affirmative vote resounded with such force that the convention floor trembled.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, came to Indianapolis Friday to confer with leaders in the convention regarding labor's activities at the employment conference in Washington next week.

John Moore, miners' leader in Ohio appointed to represent President John L. Lewis of the mine workers at the conference, conferred with Gompers Friday. Later Lewis and other union chiefs were to meet the veteran labor leader.

Tomorrow Gompers will address the convention.

Fighting within the Illinois delegation continued Friday over whether the convention should uphold the demand of the international administration for an accounting by Farrington.

Ed Wick of Belleville, one of the anti-Farrington men in the Illinois delegation, said the statement made by Farrington and other Illinois district officials, that the district convention had refused an itemization of the expenditures, was either an error or "a deliberate falsehood to influence this convention."

Wick said the matter never came before the district convention as Farrington had asserted, and added that the auditors report which would have brought it before the district meeting was "buried."

"If you don't override Farrington, we propose to appeal to the international union to revoke the Illinois charter and come in there and hold an election to put representative men in office," he declared.

Dave Wilson, a member of the Illinois district executive board, hastened to reply to Wick.

"When the statement is made that the convention was 'backed' when it was decided not to itemize this expenditure, somebody lies," Wilson said. "The rank and file elected Farrington from a field of three candidates, and this is answer enough to those assertions."

KABER MURDER AID GIVEN LIFE TERM

Cleveland, Ohio—Salvatore Cala, Friday was found guilty of the murder of Dan K. Kaber, wealthy Lakewood, Ohio, publisher. The jury recommended mercy.

Cala confessed to the police that he held Kaber's hands while another hired assassin stabbed him 24 times. Mrs. Kaber is serving a life sentence in the Marysville reformatory for planning the murder. Cala will probably be sentenced to life imprisonment.

Lodge Must Wield Whip Or Drop Back To Ranks

By L. C. Martin
Washington, D. C.—Senator Lodge is to be given one "last chance" to prove himself an effective leader of the Republican majority in the senate, a number of determined western and middlewestern Republicans have decided.

If Lodge fails to pass the test, reorganization of the present leadership is certain, these senators declare. This reorganization would rob Lodge of everything but the courtesy title of leader.

The test Lodge must pass, according to dissatisfied senators is speedy disposition of the administration's important legislative program including the treaties of peace, the tax and tariff bills and railroad refunding bill.

If any change in leadership is made it probably will be about the time Lodge is forced to relinquish some of his senate duties to devote

Jobless, She Offers Self To High Bidder

Springfield, Mo.—A woman who declared she had walked the streets looking for employment until her shoes were worn out, had Friday offered herself to the highest bidder in order to support a five year old child. The offer was made through the classified sections of local newspapers.

The advertisement was headed "For Sale" and declares the woman has used every effort to find decent employment. No name was signed to the advertisement, it being of the "blind" variety.

TORTURE ATTEMPT BECOMES MURDER

Woman Admits Throwing Acid on Husband's Face to Make Him Suffer

By United Press Leased Wire
Akron, Ohio—"I wanted to make him suffer—I didn't want to kill him," Mrs. Minnie Derr told police Friday in confessing that she had slain her husband with acid.

Mrs. Derr was arrested shortly after the funeral of her husband, A. R. Derr, secretary-treasurer of a wholesale builder's supply house.

Derr was burned by acid Monday night. He died Tuesday. Mrs. Derr received slight injuries. She had contended that she saw no intruder enter the house. Derr was unable to talk because of his burns.

"I merely wanted him to pay in physical pain for the mental torture he had caused me," the woman sobbed.

Two daughters and her 13-year-old son Harry, listened as Mrs. Derr related the tale of the tragedy and the unfaithfulness for which their father paid.

"He would come home during the early morning hours and wake me to cook him a meal," the alleged confession said. "Then he would complain about the food and use vile language and mistreat me in a sudden way and all the while I had to know it was because of his attention to another woman."

"Sunday night he came in long after midnight. He woke me to prepare something for him to eat. Then he swore at me and went to bed."

"The late moonlight streamed through our bedroom window on his sleeping face. I could not bear to think he could sleep so peacefully after he had treated me in such a manner. Then I thought he should suffer some."

"I went down stairs and mixed the acid and water. I splashed and threw it over his upturned face and the bed."

"Then, the confession said, Mrs. Derr conceived the idea of blaming a burglar for the acid throwing. Her son shielded her, claiming he had cut the wires to the house and told of seeing a man run away."

Police announced Friday they had located the "other woman" and that she admitted relations with Derr. The murder victim had been attentive her for four years, police said.

DECISION OF BRITISH EXPECTED BY IRISH

By Lloyd Allen
London—The fateful and possibly final decision of the British government towards a peace conference with Sinn Fein was impending Friday.

Both cabinet ministers who had been called to Gairloch to confer with Lloyd George upon the reply which will be forwarded to Eamon DeValera's latest note insisting upon sovereignty and agreeing to a conference, were considering individually drafts of the proposed note submitted to them by the premier.

Ireland, according to latest reports, looked forward hopefully to the British decision. Feeling of optimism ran higher in Dublin than London, where strong opposition to conciliation as long as DeValera insisted upon Irish "sovereignty" has developed.

Form Life Standards In College, Dr. Plantz Says

Students Are Told to Put Scholarship First During Their School Period

"Have you come to college for sport or for education for a good time or a good training?" President Samuel Plantz asked Lawrence students in chapel on Thursday in a spirited address against the attitude of "Don't Let Your Studies Interfere with Your College Education."

In developing his argument that it is the college scholar rather than the college athlete whose brow should be crowned with laurels, Dr. Plantz showed his keen sense of humor and large understanding of student life. After pointing out the fact that a very high percentage of the valedictorians of Harvard made a success in life and that 50 per cent of honor graduates made good as compared with 10 per cent of those who graduate without scholastic honors, Dr. Plantz de-ports than before their study tables, too many think more of football than they do of Phi Beta Kappa honors. According to the executive head of Lawrence, the average student talks about athletics, sports, the time they had putting the frosh in the city park fountain, but the all round college man realizes in his college course should be scholastic. Dr. Plantz feels that it is wrong to consider the college life of a man an interlude because those four years are perhaps the most important four years of his life. He says that no sound judgement will consider the library and laboratory as necessary evils or the fraternity as more important than the laboratory or college activities of greater value than college work.

"What we are here for," said Dr. Plantz, "is to form life's standards with which to move about on the checker board of life. We are forming habits now which will be severe-clared that it is the man or woman who is studious in college who makes the bigger success in life in college as well as in life in the world.

"Studying is not a crucifixion," said the President. "No man is happier than the scholar. No society sport, no professional dancer, no money grabber, no saloon bum has any happiness or joy which compares with that of the learned man. In college you are forming habits and if you are contented with the frosting of college activities rather than the cake of learning, you will be eating frosting all your lives."

"If a man puts secondary things first in college, he will put secondary things first all during his career. To many the class room has become of such secondary importance that as Woodrow Wilson says 'the side show has swallowed up the circus.' Too many students burn more candles than midnight oil, too many spend more time on the dormitory daven-

Deputies in Charge of Wabeno Robbers Spent Night in Appleton on Return

Willie Lesperance and Chalmer Yaeger, the Green Bay youths who pleaded guilty to robbing the Wabeno State bank before Judge W. R. Quinlan in circuit court at Cranston Wednesday and were sentenced to the state penitentiary for 25 years, were taken to Waupun Thursday by Sheriff R. H. Miller of Forest-co. Another prisoner of Forest-co. who was given a sentence of 10 years was taken to Waupun at the same time.

Sheriff Miller took no chances with his prisoners. They were taken to Waupun in three automobiles, two being accompanied by three deputies each and one by the sheriff and two deputies. The deputies consisted of R. M. Johnson, William Bassett, W. H. Brigham, F. Marks, Robert Purdy, Robert Ison, E. E. Kennison and C. E. Walker. The party left Cranston at 4 o'clock Thursday morning and covered the entire 192 miles by automobile.

Sheriff Miller and his deputies reached Appleton on their return trip at 7 o'clock Thursday evening and registered at Hotel Northern, where they spent the night. They resumed their journey at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Sheriff Miller said there was no possible chance of Lesperance and Yaeger making their escape even if they had gotten out of jail at the time they attempted to do so, as he had the building surrounded by guards both night and day.

DAIRMEN ENJOY VISIT TO COUNTY

A number of Guernsey breeders from Portage-co. accompanied members of the Waupaca County Guernsey Breeders' association in their tour of Outagamie-co. farms Thursday.

County Agent James M. Dance of Waupaca-co. was a member of the party which consisted of approximately one hundred people. All the farms visited were in the neighborhood of Greenville. Lunch was eaten on the Jamison brothers farm and the party was treated to coffee and fine Guernsey cream by their hosts. The Outagamie association treated the visitors to ice cream and cigars.

The visitors expressed much satisfaction with the tour and were pleased with the hospitality accorded them.

NATIONAL C. OF C. ISSUES SALES DATA

An illustrated booklet emphasizing the rapid turnover of merchandise as a fundamental principle of good business has just been issued by the domestic distribution department of the national chamber of commerce according to word received by Appleton chamber. Members of the local organization who desire to secure copies may do so through the local office.

The booklet deals with seven ways in which losses occur. These are in investment, interest, mark-down, salaries and wages, shelf and storage room, prestige, reputation and inefficiency.

Rapid turnover of stock, the booklet explains, decreases the interest on borrowed money and increases the revenue from capital because it shortens the time in which money is tied up in one stock of goods. It adds to the prestige and reputation of the store because it assures the customer that the goods offered are of the latest weave and pattern. No costly storage space is wasted with hold-over goods and the tolls and time-wasting process of mark-downs is avoided.

Rapid sale of stock keeps the personnel of the establishment up to the highest state of efficiency, the book points out, not alone for the reason that it increases business but largely because the sales force takes much satisfaction in handling fresh, attractive goods.

CALL FIREMEN TO SAVE AUTO

Fire broke out on the motor of an automobile belonging to J. Henry Paterman, 942 Second-ave., at the rear of Appleton Overland garage early Wednesday afternoon and resulted in a call to the fire department.

A short circuit ignited gasoline in the engine pan and the blaze melted the gasoline feed pipe, allowing the gasoline to flow from the tank to feed the fire and threatening a serious explosion. The blaze was quenched by chemical extinguishers.

SUPPOSED PROWLERS WERE HIS RELATIVES

By not having a revolver or shotgun in his possession, S. S. Cox, caretaker of the middle dam, said he saved the lives of several relatives Wednesday night. Mrs. William Lucas, his mother, and Earl Lucas, his brother, and Miss Mary Halls and Ray School of the town of Stiles, Oconto-co., arrived in Appleton shortly before midnight on their way home from an automobile trip and made his family a brief call.

The door was unlocked and they stole in quietly. Mr. Cox, who was asleep in an adjoining room, was aroused by footsteps and grabbing the nearest weapon pointed to the door. He could distinguish several forms moving about in the room and before letting drive at the nearest one inquired who they were and what was wanted. He nearly collapsed when he realized how close he came to injuring them.

Petition Council
Residents of Franklin-st., between Oneida and Morrison-sts., filed a petition with the common council Wednesday evening protesting against the parking of automobiles in that block, where they have proven a nuisance. The petition was referred to the street committee.

Viaduct Hearing Will Be Held At City Hall At Ten O'clock Saturday Morning

Highway Engineer Has Made Complete Survey of All Proposed Viaduct and Bridge Sites — Public Expected to Give Views.

When M. W. Torkelson of Madison, bridge engineer of the Wisconsin highway commission, was in Appleton a few days ago he made a thorough inspection of all the viaduct and bridge sites in company with O. F. Weisberger, city engineer, in order to get advance information for the hearing to be held at the city hall at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

He made an inspection of the entire city and of the highways entering Appleton from all sides. He also visited the site of Lake-st. bridge, but whether that proposed structure will enter into the hearing, is not known. He was especially interested in the growth of the city and the direction in which it is going.

Mr. Torkelson looked over the plans of Lake-st. bridge prepared over a year ago, and also the plans of Lake-st. viaduct which was to be built over the present Lake-st. bridge, starting at the corner of Allen and Kimball-sts. and running south to about the intersection of Lincoln and Lake-sts.

Another proposed viaduct given attention was that starting at Elm and Prospect-sts. which crossed the river to the golf grounds and then ran southeast to Lake-st. but the proposition was abandoned because no direct connections could be made with College-ave., with Elm-st. stopping at Lawrence-st.

The viaduct proposed by John Conway was then taken up. This viaduct starts at the corner of Lake and Main-sts. and runs northwesterly across the golf grounds to the south edge of the government canal; then across the canal and river just west of the papermill of the Riverside Paper and Fibre Co. and west of the plant and office of the Fox River Paper Co., landing on the bluff just east of A. K. Ellis' residence.

From there the viaduct would continue on to the intersection of Appleton and Prospect-sts. to where the small overhead bridge crosses the foot of Appleton-st., where it would bear to the right and intersect Pearl-st. hill halfway between Prospect and Lawrence-sts. Mr. Torkelson has asked for a survey of that particular line. This has been made and will appraise the costs of the viaduct at that point including all property rights.

The public right-of-way would be only that portion of Jones park, Prospect-st. and Water-st. where the viaduct would cross.

an iron worker on big bridges and tall buildings. He is naturally musical. When in California, some twenty years ago, he playfully sang for an old style wax record, that was the beginning. Today his voice is known wherever English is spoken and his records are in millions of homes throughout the world.

In the early days one song—one record, was the process of manufacture, and Murray will admit that he was pretty busy traveling from town to town making records to supply the local demands. Today his song is recorded on a "master" from which hundreds of thousands are duplicated.

Appearing with Murray will be: Henry Burr and Albert Campbell, tenors; Frank Croxton, basso; John Meyer, baritone; Monroe Silver, the originator of the "Cohen at the Telephone" stories. Fred Van Eps, banjoist and Frank Banta, pianist. The Sterling Trio and the Peerless Quartet will also give several selections, the members of both these well known Victor organizations being among those mentioned.

Seats are obtainable now at Carroll's music shop.

THE BRIDGE HEARING

The Post-Crescent believes that the course pursued by the city council Wednesday evening, in rescinding its former action of awarding a contract for the construction of a Lawe-st. bridge was commendable and that it meets approval of a large majority of citizens who are desirous of seeing Appleton's bridge problem solved in a big, broad, fair and intelligent manner.

We do not mean however, that there should not be some kind of a bridge at Lawe-st., neither do we think there is a single member of council opposed to the construction of a bridge at this point, but the city's entire bridge program should not be worked out by the method which has thus far been attempted by council. The whole bridge procedure from the beginning has been peculiar and unfortunate. It is filled with inconsistency, hasty action and immature judgment. There has not been that frankness, that openness, that thoroughness, and unanimity of action, which should attend every large and important municipal improvement. The John-st. bridge is a glaring example of this. Hardly a citizen will admit that this bridge conforms with the needs of the important thoroughfares entering our city at that point. It is too narrow for present day needs. It is one of the mistakes of the past.

We are preparing to build bridges in Appleton for use during the next fifty or one hundred years. Every dictate of sound municipal policy demands that we go slow, that we be certain we are right, that we secure the best. Every new development, such as the new facts recently brought out regarding the apportionment of cost in building a viaduct, only serve to emphasize the advisability of the employment of disinterested engineers to study the whole problem and make impartial recommendations. This has been done by engaging a city planning expert who has compiled much valuable data, and asking the State Highway department to make a survey and investigation.

The city council has cleaned the slate and opened the way for an impartial and unbiased hearing on the bridge subject. This hearing will be held Saturday before the State Highway commission, and indications are that it will be a most important meeting. Many new facts will be brought to light. There is little doubt but what Appleton will profit by the investigation of these disinterested parties.

THE COMPULSORY SCHOOL LAW

In its anxiety to safeguard child workers of Wisconsin and to insure their educational training, the legislature has, we think, overstepped the limits of prudence in the law amending the compulsory school attendance act. Under the old law part time attendance was required of children from 14 to 17 years of age, with certain exemptions. Under the new law the age limit is raised to eighteen years, while two classes are created, those ranging from 14 to 16 being placed in one class, and those from 16 to 18 in another.

As the law now stands a boy or girl between the ages of 14 and 16 must attend school full time, provided he or she has not finished the eighth grade or has not had nine years in school, otherwise half time attendance is required. If the age is between 16 and 18, the attendance must be eight hours per week, and in all cases it must be in a day school. The only exceptions in this class are high school graduates and those who can furnish a doctor's certificate of ill-health. The law is construed to mean that even married women below 18 years of age must go to school.

A compulsory educational law must be consistent and reasonable if it is to accomplish real good. It must also be elastic if it is to impose the minimum of hardship. A boy nearly 18 years and without funds to pursue his education is old enough to select a trade or vocation and prepare himself for it. The best school for his training is an establishment where the actual thing is done, where he can secure practical experience. Whether his age is 18 or less, it is obvious that if circumstances make advisable further school instruction in connection with an apprenticeship, he can hold a position more readily if permitted to work half time than even five days per week. Many employers find it practical to employ boys half time by using the services of two, one working one week and the other the next, thus preserving continuity of service, whereas it would be inconvenient if not impossible to secure efficiency and satisfactory results from five days of work. In this respect, therefore, the 14 to 16 class has advantages over the 16 to 18 class.

In both classes hardships are imposed where families are in absolute need of some earning power from their children, or where it is perfectly clear that the interests of the child himself will not be advanced by further school attendance. There are many instances of both kinds. The trouble with the law is that it follows hard and fast lines and cannot be modified to meet circumstances. The Associated Charities of this and other cities are finding that the law operates to the detriment of numerous families and of the children themselves. We think it will be generally agreed that a mistake was made in raising the age to 18 years. When a boy is coming to this age he has all the schooling he needs for the opportunities and necessities of his position, unless he has the desire for higher education and the grit to get it at temporary sacrifice, in which event a compulsory attendance law is not needed to keep him in school. This limit is neither conducive to the welfare of the boy, nor is it economically sound. It interferes very often with the boy's progress and with industrial efficiency. As for compelling girls and particularly married women of this age to remain in school, we think it is clearly inconsistent and unwise.

We believe thoroughly in protecting the right of every child to secure an education. We believe in compulsory attendance. We are in full sympathy with the intent and purpose of the Wisconsin law, but we believe it has been overdone and that the present act has carried the plan to an extreme which is impractical, injudicious and harmful.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS

The Grand Army of the Republic holds its annual reunion in Indianapolis, September 25 to 29. Later, in October, the United Confederate Veterans gather at Chattanooga. It is pathetic that these possibly may be the last reunions of the Boys in Blue and the Boys in Gray. Old age is sounding taps. The average age of the soldiers of the northern army during the Civil war was 23. In the south it was lower. Fifty-six years have passed since Lee surrendered at Appomattox. So the age of Civil war veterans must average close to 80 years.

The G. A. R. was organized in 1866, with all the vigor and enthusiasm of the American Legion. In 1890 it reached its peak membership of 409,489. In 1917 only 135,931 members remained alive. Now they have dwindled to less than 93,000. The Boys in Blue are passing, on their march into eternity, at so rapid a pace that ten years hence the last one may be gone. That will be taps for a mighty army that had 2,778,000 enlistments and reenlistments. The United Confederate Veterans have fallen to a membership of only 45,000—all that is left of the Confederate army of 640,000, an army so valorous and efficient that it succumbed to superior forces only after four years of conflict and starvation.

As the nation honors the Boys in Blue and the Boys in Gray, it must be a comforting satisfaction for the old soldiers to look about at the powerful Union that has risen since the Civil war. The north honors the southern soldiers and the south honors the northern veterans. Time has welded the once opposing armies into an indissoluble one.

HARMFUL PRINCIPLE OF POISON OAK

It is known that the poisonous principle which makes poison ivy so noxious to susceptible persons is toxicodendrol, a substance that is insoluble in water but soluble in ether and alcohol. So active is it, says the Journal of American Medical Association, that 0.005 milligrams applied to the skin will start painful inflammation.

The poisonous principle of poison oak has just been discovered by Dr. J. B. McNair and called by him lobinal. Inflammation is caused by actual contact with the resinous sap of the plant, but this contact may result through the intermediary of such objects as clothes, shoes, croquet balls or even smoke. And it may be transferred by the finger-nails or hands from one part of the body to another.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual case cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE CANCER QUESTION

Several weeks ago some correspondent sent in a query about cancer—a skin cancer, if I recollect—and I answered in this column to the effect that if I were the victim I should have the cancer removed surgically and then have a series of X-ray treatments afterward to prevent recurrence.

This query and my reply brought a shower of letters from readers who desired to obtain the name and address of my correspondent in order that they might put him or her in touch with a sure cure for cancer. No one received the correspondent's name or address. No one ever has or ever will obtain from me the identity of any correspondent. I deem it a confidential matter when any one writes to me in my capacity as a health adviser, and I feel that it is my duty to preserve such confidence inviolate.

However, there is one peculiarity about all these letters from persons who are so eager to put a stranger "in touch" with some mysterious or secret "cancer cure." The peculiarity is a striking one. Every letter is miserably scrawled, clumsily misspelled, punctuated and not at all in short, the letters come from persons who are obviously extremely ignorant. It is such people who believe, or pretend to believe they know of a sure cure for cancer. Gullible, credulous, simple minded people who can least afford to be so pitifully misled.

It is regrettably true that there are still a number of conscienceless vultures purporting to have a "cancer cure," preying upon the most unfortunate of all invalids, encouraging them to postpone or avoid the very thing they should and must grasp at the outset if they are to be saved, wheedling out of them money which very often they can ill afford to spend, and subjecting them to tortures in the way of crude treatment compared with which surgery is a soothing thought. These "cancer specialists" do not rely upon former patients—I can't say cured patients, for there are none to be found alive long after the cancer quack gets thru with them. No! No quack does that. For the end would be inevitable failure by that system. He gets new victims by canvassing them and dangling great prospects before their eyes, and filling their credulous minds with horrible notions of surgery. Honest doctors the world over reject their former patients to recommend them to new ones—that is the way the reputable physician or specialist builds a practice.

It is true that now and then a surface or skin cancer is permanently cured by a paste or "healing oils"—but not without great risk of blood poisoning and great suffering, and often unnecessarily hideous scarring. Where one such cure occurs, a hundred cures are obtained by painless, safe surgery. Besides surgery, radium and X-ray treatment have proved great aids—but surgery is the only hope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Not a Food

You stated that vinegar is poisonous. Does that apply to all kinds or brands of vinegar?—W. P. Z.
Answer—All vinegars are practically dilute acetic acid, the various flavors aside from the source of sourness being unimportant. Acetic acid cannot be utilized by the body and is therefore not a food, and being irritant it must be classed as a poison. Where as lemon or orange juice is practically dilute citric acid, which is oxidized and utilized by the body the same as food, and is therefore not poisonous.

Doubtful Water
Please publish in your column the best treatment for water which has not been filtered, to eliminate the danger of typhoid fever and other diseases carried in water.—H. A. B.

Answer—Filtering does not make polluted water safe to drink. If the water is boiled five minutes, it is made safe to drink. If you are in doubt about the purity of the water, add to each quart one tablet of Halazone, which is a chlorine compound designed for this purpose. Halazone is obtainable in tablets in drug stores. It is convenient for travelers and campers.

The Doctor's Daughter
My father is a physician, too, and he told me we would abide by your decision. The question is, would you advise a 13 year old girl to bob her hair? How soon would it grow again? My hair is coming out quite badly and therefore I want it bobbed, but father doesn't agree.—L. I.

Answer—For a physician, your father shows pretty good sense—he agrees with me? A girl or woman should never have her hair bobbed or clipped if she desires to have beautiful hair. Often bitter disappointment is the only result, for it never grows very luxuriantly again. Pinch some of father's off-stations and write again, and using a stamped envelope addressed to yourself, and I will send you some general advice about the care of your hair which I am sure your father will agree with.

BORNEO NATIVES FOND OF BEADS

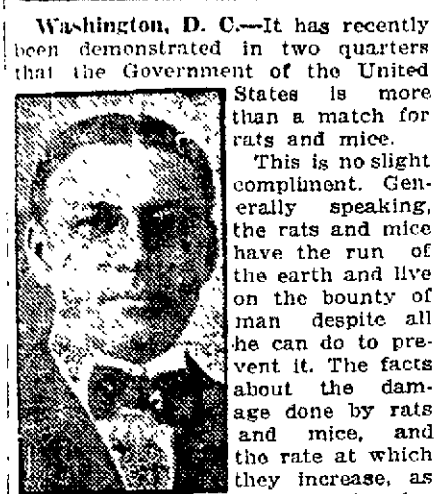

The natives of Borneo are the great bead lovers of the world. In many instances there are collections of beads which have been in one family for centuries, and which cannot be bought, they are so cherished by the owners. An examination of these collections often reveals some precious gems, which have been cut by the native artisans in bead shape.

WHERE THE CYPRESS GROWS

The cypress tree grows in swampy districts in the southeastern section of the United States. About forty per cent of the present available supply is in Louisiana and about twenty-five per cent in Florida. The remainder is scattered through the states that border the Atlantic, the Gulf of Mexico and the lower course of the Mississippi.

Government Fights Rats

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—It has recently been demonstrated in two quarters that the Government of the United States is more than a match for rats and mice.

This is no slight compliment, Gen. Haskin speaking, the rats and mice have the run of the earth and live on the bounty of man despite all he can do to prevent it. The facts about the damage done by rats and mice, and the rate at which they increase, as ascertained by the learned professors of the Biological Survey, have been published before, but it is necessary here to state them again so that you will be sure to appreciate the importance of this subject.

Be it known then that rats and mice in this country every year destroy property valued at $200,000,000 and that an army of 200,000 men may be considered as employed solely in supporting these little household and garden pests. The common brown rat breeds six to ten times a year and a pair of rats in three years would have 359,709,482 descendants if all the children lived and did well. The wonder is that there is room on earth for anything except rats.

ZOO HOMES FOR RATS

All zoos are wont to be rat-infested, and it should not be as bad as most of them, but it was bad enough. The trouble with killing rats is that if poison is used, other animals are sure to eat it, while with traps there is more or less danger to them. In the Washington zoo the trouble is increased by the fact that squirrels, rabbits, guinea fowls and turkeys roam the grounds at large.

The zoo officials therefore let the rats more or less alone, but after a while the zoo became inadequate for their support and they began invading the residences which fringe it on all sides. The residents raised a howl of protest. They demanded that the Government either keep its rats at home or kill them. The Biological Survey, which has a corps of scientific experts in the extermination of all kinds of predatory animals, was called upon consultation and a man was detailed to the zoo problem. He solved it by the use of spring traps. The zoo rat colony, it is learned, has been greatly reduced and it is confidently expected that it will be abolished.

Q. Are ex-soldiers being sent to Australia as colonists at the expense of the Government? D. D. F.

A. The Commissioner of the Commonwealth of Australia says that, while it is true that Australia desires immigrants, particularly farmers, farm laborers and female servants, who will find excellent opportunities in Australia, no monetary assistance is granted to emigrants from the United States of America.

Q. How many languages are spoken in the Philippines? C. H.

A. Numerous dialects are spoken in the Philippines, and it is estimated that it would be necessary to print a message in 13 different languages in order to make it intelligible to all the various language groups.

Q. How many people who take Civil Service examinations make a grade of 90 per cent or over? B. A. C.

A. The Civil Service Commission says that approximately 2 per cent of the Civil Service applicants make an average of 90 per cent or over.

Q. Are glass caskets a modern invention? S. P. E.

A. There is extant a reference to a glass casket made in the twelfth century. It was the work of a Byzantine artist.

Q. Why did the Methodists take this name, L. J.

A. The term "Methodism" is derived from a Greek word meaning rule. The name "Methodist" was applied in derision to those Oxford students who followed the teachings and practices of John and Charles Wesley. The name was later adopted by John Wesley himself.

Q. Was Thomas Jefferson's daughter Patsy a nun? C. P. G.

A. Patsy accompanied her father to France when he went to Paris as our Envoy. She was placed in a convent where her father frequently visited her. Soon Patsy "became a nun" by her obligations to a nun.

Q. Did Solomon write Ecclesiastes? M. M. O.

A. Scholars agree that Solomon did not write Ecclesiastes. The style of the language used is of later time, and probably the Book is a compilation of many writers.

The destruction of rats and mice on a large scale is a problem for experts. The Biological Survey is willing to give advice on the subject and those who are losing money through the work of rats should consult it. Traps must be used in some places and poison in others, while in other cases rat-proofing is the only effective measure. All of these things must be done right to be effective. Dr. Fowler, the Public Health officer of Washington, has issued a special warning against the careless use of poison. Children and domestic animals are endangered by it unless it is used with the utmost skill and care.

After cleaning up the zoo, the Government raters turned their attention to the St. Elizabeth Hospital for the Insane, which swarmed with rats even more than did the zoo. Veritable hordes of them could be seen on the grounds in broad daylight. It is said that in this place, too, good progress is being made in the work of extermination.

RATS KILLED TREES

The Government's most distressing rat problem, however, is now being met on the experimental farm at Arlington, Virginia. This rich tract of land, which was formerly the estate of General Robert E. Lee, is now used by the Department of Agriculture for experimental work. It was recently discovered that 40 fruit trees on the farm were dying as the result of damage done to their roots by mice and rats working underground, while it was probable that a great many other trees had been weakened in the same way. And these were no ordinary trees. Each of them had some special experimental significance, and each of them represented 20 years of care. It will take another 20 years to replace them.

Professor Silver, the most eminent of the Biological Survey rodent killers, was assigned to this important case. He found that it was an appalling example of the variety and versatility of the mouse and rat family. For one kind of rat and three kinds of mice were at work in this valuable orchard. The mice were short-tailed mice, pine mice and meadow mice. Some of them worked underground and some on the surface. Some of them worked night and some during the day.

Poison did not at first tempt these animals because they enjoyed the tender roots of the fruit trees more than any bait which was offered, and also because the rain and dew washed the poison off the bait. Professor Silver, none the less, ultimately succeeded in poisoning a good many of them by placing the most tempting baits in glass cases which the mice could enter, but which protected the bait from the weather. He also caught many of the animals by the use of small steel traps. The third measure employed was that of warning all of the surrounding farmers not to kill hawks or owls, as these birds are the greatest natural enemies of all kinds of mice and rats.

As a result of all the measures the mouse and rat population of the experimental farm has been greatly reduced, and it seems certain that the animals will not succeed in thwarting some lines of Government work there, as they seemed about to do. The work is perhaps most important as a demonstration of what can be done. Doubtless many a farmer has despaired of his orchard because of the rodents. He should take heart. By persistence and the use of right methods, rats and mice can be exterminated everywhere, from the city cellar to the farthest outlying farm.

Good Food For Thought

One Quart of Milk Equals in Energy, and food value any of the following.

- 4-5 lb. chicken 8 eggs
- 6 lbs. squash 3/4 lb. beefsteak
- 4 1/2 lbs. lobsters 9 1/2 oranges

Cost in Comparison to Milk, 1 quart Milk 9c

Cost at Present Prices

- 4-5 lbs. chicken 24c
- 6 lbs. Squash 24c.
- 4 1/2 lbs. lobsters $2.25
- 8 eggs 24c
- 3/4 lb. beefsteak 18c
- 9 1/2 oranges 38c

Compare the cost of the above mentioned articles and ponder for a moment. See if you heed the greatest food experts' advice to give every growing child a quart of safe milk a day, and adults at least a pint. Growing children need lime and plenty of it, for their growing bones and teeth; milk contains lime in a form that is easily changed in the body into bone. Boys and girls, and even grown people, need lime, because the bones are always wearing away, little by little, and this wear and tear must be replaced. Lime helps build bones and makes them stronger. The following illustration shows how much lime there is in milk compared to carrots, eggs or bread.

- 1 Cup of Milk
- 1 1/2 Cup of Carrots
- 1 Egg
- 2 Slices of Bread

Every man, woman or child should take milk, be it much or little, very slowly, eat it—so to say, or sip it, not pour it down like you would water, then milk will do what it is intended to do. Use more milk, — not the cheap kind, but the SAFE kind, as safe milk is the cheapest food on the market today, bar none.

To Re-Treat Rolls

A very satisfactory way to reheat rolls is in a paper bag. Put the rolls in the bag and dampen the bag with warm water. Twist the top of the bag tightly shut and tie. Put into a hot oven. When the bag is dry the rolls will be hot and just like freshly baked ones. Quite stale rolls yield to this treatment.

Menu For Tomorrow
BREAKFAST — Stewed prunes, scrambled eggs, brown bread toast, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Purée of chicken with rice, hot rolls, radishes, ginger snaps, tea.

DINNER — Short ribs of beef, mashed potatoes, new beets, cottage pudding, coffee.

My Own Recipes

While beets are young and tender use both the tops and the roots. Cook the greens and season and shape in a mold. Reheat and surround with the beets to serve.

Purée of Chicken with Rice
One-half cup finely chopped chicken. ¼ cup finely chopped cooked ham. ½ cup rice, chicken stock, 2 table-spoons top milk, salt and pepper.

Wash rice, cover with cold water and bring to the boiling point. Rinse under running water and drain. Cover with stock and cook until tender. Pound chicken and ham with a wooden potato masher until smooth, moistening with a little stock. Rub through a strainer. Put in a stew pan, add cream, salt and pepper and stir over fire until hot. Add stock slowly until the mixture is the consistency of thick cream. Arrange the rice on a platter to form a border and fill with chicken mixture. Serve very hot.

Short Ribs of Beef

Put meat on to boil in boiling water. Add salt when half done. When tender drain from stock and put into a frying pan with melted butter. Fry till butter is absorbed. This is a delicious way to cook short ribs of beef. The meat is more tender if a little fat. (Copyright 1921 by Newspaper Enterprise)

MUSICAL BODIES OF H. S. RESUME

Orchestra and Glee Clubs Reorganize for Season—Show Much Promise

Kaukauna—Musical activities have increased with a bound in the last few days in high school. The first rehearsal of the girls glee club was held Thursday afternoon and about 20 girls reported. There is still considerable material in the freshmen class which will be enrolled when the students become more used to their surroundings.

The high school orchestra, the nucleus of last year's organization met for the first time Thursday evening. Due to last year's experience there was no trouble in getting through several numbers in a creditable manner. The aim of Miss Edna Ruff, musical director is to make it an alumni high school orchestra so that several graduates who play instruments will feel welcome to join.

Critics last year pronounced the orchestra the best musical organization ever formed in this high school and the endeavor will be to exceed that record.

The boys glee club is another organization which created considerable comment last season. The boys met Wednesday evening for their first rehearsal.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS
If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parment (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this preparation a trial.

ARBUCKLE FORGOT HIS STEPMOTHER

Drives $25,000 Car Right Past Humble Washwoman's Cottage Without a Stop

Special to Post-Crescent
Santa Clara, Cal.—This is a "cut-back" in film parlance from the tragic Virginia Rappe episode in Roscoe Arbuckle's life reel to a "close-up" of his boyhood. It's pictured by the 33-year-old stepmother who has long felt herself renounced by him.

The location is an humble home on the outskirts, where Mrs. Mollie Arbuckle, life-long bread-winner over the washtubs, pauses to recite her story of Fatty's lugubrious amble toward fame.

When, as a mother with five children, she married Roscoe's father with a brood of four, Mrs. Arbuckle mothered the boy through adolescence. She speaks with tender pity of his serio-comic youth when the poundage that was to make him celebrated served but as a target for the village jokes. She tells of his chronic laziness, of his unhappy days at school, of her unavailing efforts to stir him to industry.

Describes Role
And then she directs the spotlight out along the road to fortune taken by this puzzling lad, tells of his failure to write, and his indifference to her increased struggle when the husband deserted the double brood.

"But it is no more than I expected of Roscoe," she states, with neither bitterness nor reproach.

"He was aggravatingly lazy as a boy. Neither his father's cuffings nor my pleadings could cure it. He didn't do any work and didn't contribute to ward the family support."

"Roscoe didn't seem to fit in anywhere. He quit school in the fifth grade. I urged him to go back, but Mr. Arbuckle was indifferent, and when he did start, his father made pelted him to wear overalls and worn shoes, so that the children jeered him. That hurt Roscoe and he stayed away, spending his time near a river, fishing and in solitude."

"His father used to beat him—and he often deserved it."

"Then he started hanging around saloons finally getting work as bar-boy, cleaning the floors. He'd just stop half an hour for a mug of beer at such times, oddly enough, he seemed to have plenty of energy."

"When he left Santa Clara he owed a number of people. I suppose he's just forgotten—as he forgot us."

"He's never written to me or any of the family. Often he's driven through the town in his fine automobile but he never stops to say hello."

"No I have never gone to see him in the movies. I'm not without my pride, and if he wants none of us, so let it be."

Contrast Striking

Other members of the family show resentment at fate, for the queer twist that brought their kinsman out of obscurity while they've but a mere living for their steady industry. This feeling the stepmother shows no sign of sharing although there is striking contrast between her humble dwelling and the sumptuous $100,000 home of Roscoe Arbuckle in Los Angeles, with its $25,000 auto in the garage.

Unlike the palatial home of her famous stepson, Mrs. Arbuckle's house is lighted with kerosene lamps and has few modern conveniences. She carries the water from a well for her wash tubs—still her method of livelihood, supplemented by aid from her other sons, now all grown. On the clean floors are rag carpets of her own weaving. One of her two daughters helps with the housework.

Mollie Arbuckle is proud of toil gives much, asks little for herself and has huffed the way for her brood without complaint.

"They are all poor," she says of her family. "And they have all helped—except Roscoe."

Thus the "cut-in" fades, and the reel again picks up the frowning comedian in the cell of San Francisco city prison.

GERMANY PRINTED TOO MUCH MONEY

Marks Usually Worth About 20 Cents Have Dwindled to Less Than 1 Cent

Special to Post-Crescent
New York.—The decline in marks is due to the oversupply furnished by the German printing press, including treasury notes and other forms of paper currency.

The German circulation now outstanding is in excess of one hundred billion marks.

The gold held by the Reichsbank is only about 1 per cent of this sum. In the New York market 10,000 marks, formerly worth $2,400, could have been bought today for $91.

The mark may therefore be said to have only a nominal value here, although the German people will still accept it at a much higher valuation in exchange for their goods and labor.

That they soon will realize its relative worthlessness seems to me inevitable.

When this happens paper money will, in fact, be demonetized in Germany and the country will be without any circulating medium except gold and silver may be attracted by the low prices at which the Germans must sell the products of their labor in order to exist.

Whether the German government will recognize these conditions by formally declaring a moratorium or the demonetization of paper money does not make much difference.

A country in which the circulating medium is so discredited that it will not be accepted in exchange for real property cannot do much business and must suffer financially and otherwise.

I have for some time foreseen and predicted some such development and see no reason to change my opinion.

While justice requires that Germany should make reparation for the injuries she inflicted and the destruction that she caused it is idle to expect that she can pay the damages assessed against her unless she is given reasonable opportunity to trade with the rest of the world.

Of this opportunity her late enemies seem disposed to deprive her by getting tariff walls and other obstructions to trade, the result is her present predicament, which will, I think, greatly delay her economic rehabilitation and may make it impossible for her to meet the reparation payments for which she is liable.

NO COAL FAMINE, BUREAU PREDICTS

Early Buying Keeps Supply at Docks Moving and Makes Room For More

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison.—Wisconsin will have plenty of coal this winter, it was learned here Thursday, following a survey made by the state department of markets through its special investigator, Paul H. Pressantina, former director of the rent bureau in Milwaukee.

"Wisconsin will need in 1921, ten million tons of bituminous coal and 2,200,000 tons of anthracite," the report says. Of this amount, 6,760,305 tons of bituminous and 1,886,352 tons of anthracite coal had been received at the docks by September first.

"Refusal of the public to buy early in the season threatened a famine, because the docks were filled and could receive no more shipments. This condition, however, has been improved by a recent increase in buying, which leaves room on the docks for further shipments."

"No decline in prices of coal is to be looked for this winter," according to the report. "The price of hard coal is dictated by eastern railroad coal companies who have a practical monopoly of the anthracite production in Pennsylvania."

WILL ARREST AUTOISTS WHO ENDANGER WORKMEN

Scoring autoists who speed recklessly through crews of men and teams at work on road improvement, A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, declared Thursday it would be necessary to take offenders into court.

Grading work on highway 47 is now being done in the town of Cicero and during the last week lives of both men and horses have been jeopardized by speeders. As a protection to men in the employ of the county or in the employ of contractors doing county work, Mr. Brusewitz said it would be necessary to weed out the drivers who endanger lives.

Miss Helen Donaldson of Pittsburg arrived in Appleton Thursday to install Zeta Omega sorority as a chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha.

JESS TOOK LAST CHANCE

"After three years of doctoring for my stomach I became discouraged and swore I wouldn't take anything else. I was bloated with gas all the time. Someone praised Mayer's Wonderful Remedy so highly that I decided to take a last chance. I am now feeling like a new man." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded—Druggists everywhere.

Conditions Improving
The Appleton Wire Works and the Wisconsin Wire Works, which were among the first manufacturing plants to feel the depression in business are now operating a good portion of their looms and indications are favorable for a restoration of business. Paper mills are also reporting an increase of orders.

To All Telephone Users

BECOME a partner in the "Bell System" by purchase of American Telephone and Telegraph Company stock.

We believe that there are few, if any, concerns in this country whose positions are more secure

BECAUSE:

Financially

Its assets in value equal not only all its indebtedness but also at least twice the par value of its outstanding stocks. Its stockholders have paid in, in cash, much more than the par value of the stock. There is no "water" in the capitalization.

Commercially

Its growth is sure and steady—regardless of the ever-changing business conditions. As it has come to be more and more recognized as a necessity, its expansion is more rapid than the growth of the country itself.

Earnings

THE AMERICAN TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH COMPANY has never paid a dividend which it has not earned with a wide margin of safety. It is now earning at the rate of about $12 per share plus its equity in the undivided earnings of its controlled companies.

Record

For forty consecutive years the Company [with its predecessor] has paid uninterrupted dividends of at least $7.50 per share. The Directors have now placed the Company upon a $9.00 per year dividend basis.

Prospects

THERE is a large business in sight and the evidence of the past points to an endless increase.

Distribution

The $515,000,000 stock of this Company is owned by more than 175,000 different people, an average of about 29 shares to a stockholder! We believe that no other Company in the world, having no preferred stock, has so many stockholders. It has many stockholders in every State and is adding new ones faster than ever before in its history.

Politically

The Company is "NOT IN POLITICS." The Public Commissions now know that this is true and they know that the Operating Companies endeavor to be fair with the public and with the Commissions. They therefore almost universally accord fair treatment to the Company.

Character

A CORPORATION may be quite right in all the above respects but still be unsound because of its management. This company is sound.

This Company has CHARACTER in its Management, sound, honest, faithful, intelligent CHARACTER.

Its traditions are those of fair treatment and efficient service to the public; its personnel is saturated with these ideals, from its President, H. B. TRAYER, all through the organization and through the organizations of its associate companies.

We recommend the purchase of its shares, which are now selling at about $107 per share, and should be glad to receive orders for any amount from one share up or to give any further information desired.

STILL IS FOUND IN RAID AT KIMBERLY

Charles Love Accidentally Falls
Into Hands of Officials in Neenah Cleanup

Neenah—Wholesale raids on suspected moonshine dens conducted by federal prohibition agents aided by Twin City police unearthed evidence in the nature of stills, moonshine and mash. The raids were conducted with the utmost secrecy.

At the home of Sam Anderson, 425 West North Water street, Neenah, a still and 15 gallons of mash were confiscated. When the sponge squad visited the home of Paul Malchow, 315 West Forest avenue, a still was found to be in operation and was seized together with a considerable quantity of mash. Visiting the home of Charles Adams, 211 Union street, the raiders Came upon a quantity of moonshine liquor and while they were in the house, Charles Love, of Kimberly, drove into the yard in an automobile carrying a cargo of moon which authorities claim, was to have been delivered to Adams.

A search of Love's premises at Kimberly resulted in the discovery of a still and mash. When the mooning party entered the saloon conducted by Joseph Drexler at 558 Broad street, Menasha, the bartender, they claim, attempted to pour the contents of two glasses into the washing trough. Samples of the water were taken, however. Frank Kimborski, living upstairs over a saloon at 227½ Main street, was found to have moonshine in his possession and the affidavit of a man who claims to have purchased moonshine of Kimborski was obtained. Federal Prohibition Agent J. W. Martin of Green Bay, was in personal charge of all of the raids.

BOXING FANS WILL SEE MITCHELL BOUT TONIGHT

Several Appleton boxing fans left Friday for Milwaukee to see Ritchie Mitchell in action against Ernie Rice, the English lightweight champion.

Local followers of Mitchell believe he packs a punch in his left arm that will assure him of dethroning the Englishman and they are anxious that he bring his old jab back into play. In his first matches the American lad is said to have showed him self superior in left hand tactics but urged by ringsiders to use his right hand more, he discarded his natural punch. This is said to have placed him at a disadvantage in several crucial matches.

TAILORING AT COST

GRID SEASON OPENS TOMORROW WITH H. S. GAME

HIGHS WILL PLAY WAUSAU ELEVEN AT LAWRENCE FIELD

Coach Vincent Has Whipped Defense Into Formidable Condition for Battle

Frishtling with vigor but not fatally overtrained. Appleton high school members of the midgets under Coach Arthur Vincent will meet a team twice previously defeated here when they take the field against the Wausau high school eleven in Lawrence field Saturday afternoon for the opening scrimmage of the season.

Born in 1920 and in 1919, Wausau came here like its Napoleon came to Waterloo, fighting grimly and well provided with weight but unable to break through the defense which Appleton's "Orange Blues" held out against them. Last year Wausau took defeat by a score of 25 to 7 and its showing the year previous was not less ignominious.

Coach Vincent has sixteen names on his candidate list and from these will be drawn the gridiron machine for the initial game of the season. Herman Zschetner and Edward Junge, dependable centers of last year will be back on the squad with Junge possibly in back position. Bob Bonini, whose substantial person has proved an invulnerable barrier to many attackers, will likely hold his post as guard. Arnold Purvis, Reed Havens, Andrew Leithen, Boyd Schwegler, Merrill Schell are all slated for tackles. Of these men, Havens was left tackle last year and was always at the proper spot at the proper time to pave the way for a substantial advance.

Joe Lauehl, Jack Kanouse and Clarence Versteegen are on the slate for ends. Versteegen is of Little Chute and has shown great promise from the first. Harold Barow, Otis Weinbaum, Theodore Bau and Clem Gerou are the prospects for the half and full-back positions. Donald Stark is a possible guard and George Morris is an aspirant for center.

Reports from Wausau this season credit their high school squad with plenty of beef and brains but deplore its lack of confidence. Appleton promises to make up this deficiency, however, on the field here but will not thereby guarantee the results to be more satisfactory to the visitors.

The Wausau warriors are given credit for remarkable passing but are criticized for lack of concerted strategy and concentrated advance. In the harness somewhat longer than the Appleton lads, they claim to be more seasoned and just a little harder and promise to put up a good bout.

In their game against the Wausau high school eleven last Saturday afternoon, they made a serious mistake by changing their style of play when the goal was practically reached but it is believed the experience will insure them against the same error here.

More liberal support for high school athletics is the aim of the management this year and are anxious that a large attendance will be in the grandstand for the first kickoff.

He Props Phillies

Philadelphia — Gosh only knows where the Phillies would be if it wasn't for "Cy" Williams.

One hundred and eighty pounds, six feet two inches, fleet foot, keen eyes, and a regular guy.

It's Williams' timely hitting that has kept the Phillies from dropping completely out of the bottom.

He is always there, always dependable on that consistency that counts for any club.

Errors he makes, surely, but they are errors of effort and over-eagerness. It is his desire to win that makes him go far off the path to strike a seemingly impossible swing.

Williams started in the outfield and has stayed there. Born in Wadland, Ind., where he first played. Bats and throws left-handed.

The Phillies acquired him in a trade with the Chicago Cubs, for Paskert in 1912. He showed his worth by being right up among the boys with 164 hits for an average of .328.

Last year he hit 122 times for a total of 233 bases, more than any player except Hornsby, who was leading the league. He committed 12 errors on the field.

BRANDTS TO LOAD UP SUNDAY WITH STRONG PLAYERS

Agreements on Ringers and Revised Schedule Reached at League Meeting

Baseball desert savoring of the big league variety will be handed out next Sunday to fans who witness the games played in the four-city post-season league series, as a result of the heavy loading sanctioned by league chiefs in a recent meeting.

Fond du Lac's representatives entered the meet protesting because Menasha and Oshkosh had both augmented their lineups with seasoned men from reputable clubs while the Rupeings, following out the usual league rules, maintained their regular summer personnel. They blamed their two defeats to their misunderstanding on this point.

Representatives of the Brands supported Fondy's argument and the heads of the Oshkosh and Menasha teams conceded the right of loading up to the other clubs. To give Fond du Lac a reasonable chance to retrieve its position, it was voted to extend the post-season series one or two games, arranging the extension in such a way that no team would have any grounds for complaint.

Taking advantage of the ruling, both the Rupeings and the Brands, who have hitherto refrained from priming, will put on the strongest men available next Sunday. Fond du Lac has asked Hank Schultz to look up four good men for their team and the big hurler is now combing the industrial baseball machines of the state metropolis for purse-winning players, at the same time looking out for two or three good men to reinforce his own support.

There will be either two or three changes in Appleton's aggregation Sunday. Spies shortstop, will be playing Milwaukee and two other infielders probably will be gone.

Under the new schedule the winner of the Appleton-Oshkosh game here Sunday will play the winner of the Fond du Lac-Menasha battle the following Sunday Oct. 2, and the loser will play the loser.

Standings of the four teams will be tabulated after the game of Oct. 2 and if there is a tie, it will be played off Oct. 3.

COLLEGE GIRLS TO PUSH ATHLETICS

Leaders of the various activities of the Women's Athletic association of Lawrence college were appointed at the first meeting of the school year. Evelyn Gerrit, Chicago, is chairman of basketball activities. Vera Austin, Waterloo, hiking. Edith Colter, Duluth, of skating. Evelyn Mundhenke, Rockford, Ill., of tennis and Irene Thorpe, of dancing. Lillian Schlatke was appointed to take charge of the publicity.

Women's athletics this year will be far more extensive than ever before if the plans of the leaders can be carried out. The girls expect to have a like planned with a leader for each day. Tennis, which has never been organized to any great extent among the college women will be given a new impetus and it is hoped that there will be a large tournament in the spring. Class teams will be organized in basketball and the usual tournament played.

"LITTLE" WORLD'S SERIES HAS BEGUN

By Henry L. Farrell
By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Any other town but this big blasé burg would close shop for an event like today's.

Even the world's series baseball biggest classic, hasn't much more to promise than the four game series starting this afternoon between the New York Yanks and the Cleveland Indians.

The pennant and the big cut of the series change is at stake. Both clubs have been pointing to it for two weeks. The bugs have been waiting for it longer.

With a prospective outpouring of 140,000 all attendance records for a four game league series are expected to be broken. All the reserved seats for the series were sold two days ago. Early this morning a small crowd of early birds were camped outside the bleacher gates. Officials of the club estimate that 30,000 will see today's and Friday's games and that 40,000 will be in the yard Saturday and Sunday. Inspector Calabrese, who has handled baseball crowds for years, said this morning that he had doubted his force of coppers for the series.

Tris Speaker and his Indians were in town this morning, confident, but as usual, saying nothing. Miller Huggins the sawed-off pilot of the Yanks dismissed all attempts at comment with a polite "we're ready."

Stanley Coveleskie, the Shamokin minor and spitballer de luxe probably will be selected by Speaker to go after the first and fourth games. The stocky Pole hasn't done much at Yank killing this season as he has won one out of five starts against the Hugginites.

Waite Hoyt, the "boy wonder," or

Carl Mays, the portly underhand tosser, will be sent against the Indians by Huggins.

Figuring on the previous series between the two contenders, the Yanks ought to win the series as they have taken eleven out of eighteen games this season from the Indians. But it is never safe to apply figures to those Indians.

It is doubtful if Speaker will be able to play as the Indian chief is still in bad condition.

START NEW ORDER TO COMBAT GROWTH OF KU KLUX KLAN

Former Illinois Governor Declares Mystic Organization is Un-American

By Roy Gibbons
Special to Post-Crescent

Chicago—Ku Klux Klanism is expected to be dealt its death blow by a new national organization being perfected to fight racial animosity and religious bigotry and to promote comity and unity.

This organization is headed by Edward F. Dunne, former mayor of Chicago and governor of Illinois, and it will conduct a membership drive throughout every state in the union. Dunne and his aids expect 1,000,000 enlistments within a short time.

Its name is the National Unity Council—"a name that expresses exactly what this organization stands for," says Dunne.

Attack on Klan
Formation of the National Unity Council follows a spontaneous attack on the Ku Klux Klan that has been steadily developing in the past two months.

The principal charge against the Klan is that while advertising itself as the agency of 100 per cent Americanism it has proved itself totally un-American in its every aspect and action.

The result has been that definite steps of an official character have been taken in various cities and states to so restrict the Klan as to put it out of business.

"My information is that the Ku Klux Klan is largely a commercial enterprise exploiting sectional and racial hatreds for its own enhancement," says ex-Governor Dunne.

"In the south, like its post-bellum predecessor, it is anti-Negro; on the Pacific coast, it is anti-Japanese; in many other places it is anti-Catholic, anti-Jew, anti-foreign born—anti-any-thing, in fact, which will appeal to private prejudices and seem to afford the person holding them a chance to do something out to the law against those toward whom he is prejudiced."

Reply to Attacks

The Ku Klux Klan, however, has not let these attacks pass by unnoticed. In five years this organization has grown from 34 charter members to a total variously estimated at from 500,000 to 800,000.

In the south it has attracted most attention for their night riders wearing the habiliments of the Klan have tarred and feathered, lashed at the post and otherwise mistreated men and women against whom their wrath was directed.

Charges of Profit

The charges are made that the order has made large sums for those on the inside through commissions paid for enlisting members and through the sale of the Klan's regalia. It is said the Klan gave Simmons a $25,000 home and also a college where he formerly taught, which is to be the center of propaganda for the order.

The National Unity Council, on the other hand, has no initiation fee. The council is to be supported by voluntary contributions. Following are its aims:

To solidify into one group all the racial and religious elements challenged by the Ku Klux Klan as not constituting 100 per cent Americanism.

To dissipate prejudices already formed against these elements by the Klan.

To make disclosures against the Klan following proper investigation and to bring such legal action against it as may be deemed advisable.

To promote universal cooperation throughout the country among members of all creeds and races by instilling a feeling of brotherhood.

"I have no sympathy for the Ku Klux Klan," Dunne said, "because, by its very tenets it stirs up prejudice against creed and race, which is an intolerable practice attacking the very roots of our national life."

HUMOR WAS MEANS OF HER COMEBACK

Mrs. Leslie Carter Regains
Limelight in New Stage
Role as Lady Kitty

By Alice Rohe
Special to Post-Crescent

New York—"A sense of humor is more precious than wealth. It gets you over the difficult hurdles in life. Never lose it."

"Always remember that in every woman, no matter how bad or vain or frivolous or selfish she may be, there is a latent response to good."

Mrs. Leslie Carter was the speaker.

The first observation had to do with the unprecedented triumph of her welcome back to the New York stage after nine years' absence.

The second referred to that particular quality she gave to the role of the transgressing Lady Kitty, which won for her on this memorable first night the overwhelming ovation as a fine comedienne.

Center of Interest

Nothing in recent theatrical history has equalled the interest centered in Mrs. Carter's reappearance after her retirement following her break with David Belasco, who made her famous in the heavy emotional roles of Zaza and DuBarry.

The return in the role of the frivolous, artificial Lady Kitty of 55, gave full expression to that sense of humor which Mrs. Carter says has been her sustaining force since she was the most acclaimed actress in America.

"But there is quite as much art—if not more—in comedy as in tragedy," said Mrs. Carter. "Indeed, playing the role of the woman clinging to the semblance of youth—a transgressing woman—and keeping the sympathy of the audience is much more difficult than playing tragic and emotional roles. These latter play themselves."

"No one can quite appreciate just what it meant to me to 'come back.' There is nothing in the world quite so tragic as the life of an actress who 'can't come back.'"

"The life of Lady Kitty, in this Somerset Maugham play, which shows the tenacity with which woman clings to her youth to hold the thing she loved, is really a symbol. Life is often very hard on women—what would it be for us without that gift of humor?"

"I'm glad I could give my friends a laugh. I feel that where there is comedy, there is real art. Wherever there is humor there is the great human appeal."

"If we can make people happy we have accomplished something."

LEAVES ALL ELSE TO FOLLOW CREED

A. Houghton Pratt Predicts Upheaval Similar to Noah's Ark Incident

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Atlantic Highlands, N. J.—If you were wealthy, of enviable social and cultural position, exclusive clubman, member of a big publishing firm, married to a rich wife, would you give it all up to starve for a mystic idealism?

A. Houghton Pratt says you would—if only you understood!

He has done so, and in the Sanctuary of the Divine Mother, the home his family—have been estranged from him.

"These ties are nothing compared to the greater ones," said Pratt. "If you are willing to trust to the Supreme even when you don't know where your next meal is coming from, you have reached the highest."

Woman's Era

"The new era, which will follow the readjustment after the cataclysm will be the woman's era. And the great fight will be against accepting the Mother God—the Divine Mother."

"Even now the signs of the Divine Mother's approach to the earth for judgment may be seen in woman's awakening and emancipation."

"God is both male and female. Heretofore man has refused to recognize the woman element in the Divine. But she is THE great element."

Pratt and Mme. Parma say they believe in a recognizable God. Pratt has an intense sincerity.

"We have withstood all tests—of the Life Religion at Atlantic Highlands, he told me of the coming cataclysm about to engulf the world. Here he is preparing himself to meet it—a modern Noah.

"It is no mere social upheaval, world-wide war or revolution, but a real cataclysm like the great Deluge," said Pratt. "God has told me the rushing of waters, the trembling of the earth, will mark the new upheaval which is very near at hand."

"No, it is not the end of the earth—not all—it might be said to be the beginning."

Madame Parma

On a couch by Pratt's side, clad in a white satin robe embroidered in mystic symbols, was Mme. Parma, the teacher who introduced him into the mystic revelations which now guide his life. She is a beautiful young woman, who was a student of Rodin, the sculptor.

Since the revelations Pratt's wife has divorced him. His mother—all hunger, social ostracism," he said. "Because we know we are the mouthpieces through whom the Divine Mother is speaking!"

As for those who will get a place on this new Noah's Ark—the sanctuary of the Divine Mother at Atlantic Highlands, Pratt says:

"All who have enough winged atoms to hold their bodies together, when the bacilli of untruth are consumed, will survive."

Resumes Work

Nic Christiansen, section foreman of the Northwestern road, who was overcome by heat two months ago, has just returned to work. He was employed at Appleton Junction at the time he became affected and in falling over one of the rails fractured a rib. Mr. Christiansen's section extends south from Appleton and he is at present busy cleaning the track and getting the blocking system ready for winter.

A mother's problem—what food gives back the energy a child uses up daily?

CHILDREN use up a tremendous amount of energy every day. Every mother of a healthy, sturdy youngster will testify to this. Children need richly nourishing food to supply this energy, and also to supply food for growth.

The selection of this food is your most important duty. You cannot give too much care to this matter. Grape-Nuts, the rich, wholesome cereal, made from whole wheat flour and malted barley, with milk or cream, supplies very necessary requirements for the growing child.

If you want to help your children to be rosy, sturdy, full of vitality and vigor, give them plenty of delicious Grape-Nuts, crisp, sweet and satisfying

Go to your grocer today and get a package of health-building Grape-Nuts. Give the youngsters this invigorating food with milk or cream, and see how they will thrive on it and grow strong, robust and sturdy.

"The Horror of that Night" has made me a "Changed Woman"

Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer Tells How Her Five Hours in the Clutches of Burglars Has Brought Loathing of Jewels, Frivolities and All That Once Was Dear to Her

"Gag her!" commanded the master mind of the burglars. "Now blindfold her!" Thus I lay upon the bathroom floor five and one-half terrible hours while one of the ruffians stood guard over me."

WHEN the New York police, answering a telephone call early on the morning of November 15th, arrived at the residence of Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer, at No. 59 East Ninetieth street, they were astonished to hear details of a robbery in that fashionable section of New York which they could scarcely believe. While their wealthy young mistress was out at a theatre and supper party, burglars had forced their way into the house, had seized, bound, gagged and hidden away the butler and maid in closets and had sat down to patiently await the return of Mrs. Palmer from her evening's entertainment.

In the early hours of the morning Mrs. Palmer had returned and, as she ascended the stairs, entered her bedroom, threw open her opera cloak, and turned at hearing the sound of a footstep in the hall, she found herself facing three masked burglars. Impulsively trying to escape from them, she leaped down to the first landing of the stairs, tore the heels from her shoes, broke both ankles, and was hopelessly at the mercy of the robbers, who carried her to her bathroom, bound her, gagged her, and held her prisoner while they stripped from her person her clothes and her house of nearly $800,000 worth of jewels, furs and gowns.

All this is already known to newspaper readers. But as an unexpected sequel to that startling experience Mrs. Palmer explains on this page to-day how the horror of that night and those hours she spent in the clutches of the invaders of her home has made her a changed woman with a completely new view of life and of the things which are and are not really worth while. Lying in bed, both feet in splints, Mrs. Palmer last week dictated the following statement:

By Charlotte King Palmer.

IT has cost me five hours of prostrate and abject terror in the hands of those terrible robbers and nearly $800,000 worth of jewels and other valuables to teach me that the things which I once valued most are not worth while.

The shock of that night of horror has left in me a distaste, almost loathing, for the things that had once possessed me. Beautiful clothes, rare jewels, magnificent furs were not merely my possessions. I was theirs. I had loved the soft touch, like that of beautiful fabrics. They seemed to me like the gentle fingers of a caressing hand. Now I draw away from them.

The ripple of silk against my skin nauseates as the presence of a snake. I crave substantial things. Lying here upon my bed, with the soft, subdued roar of Fifth avenue and the sunlight from the west falling across my bed, I think of homespun. I would like to wrap myself in it as the monks robed themselves in sack cloth.

Sables, ermine, the sheen of silver fox, have lost their beauty to me. Their soft splendor has vanished. Behind the richness, beneath their warmth, I feel the scratch of claws, the steel-like grip of cruel jaws.

Jewels! How I once loved them! They were to life what the stars are to the sky. They were its brilliance, its radiance. Particularly did I love pearls. I regarded them as the universal friends of women. Every woman looked the lovelier for them. I had likened the feeling of them about the neck to the touch of tiny baby fingers.

But now it seems that were that necklace restored to me it would strangle me. I don't want to see it again. Or if I do, I shall sell it and give the money to the poor. Rings! I have not worn one since that night of dread. It seems that my hands could not bear their weight.

Do not conclude that this is neurosis and that it will pass away when my health is restored. My health is restored. I am young and blessed with great vitality. The doctors say I am not nervous. This new view of mine is actual and permanent. A new and true sense of values has been granted to me. I have been allowed to see things as they are. I see life no longer as a shimmering, rippling, wavelike surface. My new vision pierces that surface. I see the creatures of the depths, monsters that seek to devour.

Once I thought all the world of men and women my friend. I believed that those who smiled in response to my smiles, laughed in answer to my laugh, were sincere. I did not understand that what made their faces hard and repellent was envy. Do you know what brings the ugliest lines to a human face? Not hatred. Not rage. But envy. For envy, besides being hard, is mean. Now I understand that the beautiful gowns and magnificent furs and splendid jewels that gave me so much pleasure many others wanted to take from me. And I want them no longer. I do not want to inspire in any breast the lust of my possessions that ruled my house that night in November.

Those five hours of prostrate and abject terror loosened my hold upon my possessions. The rule of things passed from my life. It was on November 15 of last year that I returned to my home after a supper dance with friends. I let myself into my house at No. 59 East Ninetieth street with my own key. I tripped upstairs and was about to enter my room when I shrank back. The room was unlike itself. My costly bed had been tumbled. The covers were awry. Knowing the habits of my careful maid, Margaret, I knew that she had not left it in that condition. Something strange and sinister had visited the room. I turned slowly, as though nearly frozen. At my elbow, near the staircase, and evidently having come from the sitting room beyond my bedroom, stood three men.

Dark men, all of them, with hard, impassive faces. One raised a commanding hand as though he thought to stop a scream. "We are detectives," he said. "Your house has been robbed."

I reeled backward toward the stair and deliberately, in my short evening dress, sprang down the flight of stairs. I struck the landing with such force that both the heels of my dancing pumps came off. Breathing hard and swearing fiercely, the men dashed down the stairs after me. Even while I saw them coming I snatched off my pearl necklace and some rings and thrust them deeply into my corset.

The pretense of being detectives was over in a moment. One man seized me by the shoulders. One of them laid his heavy hand, big and hairy like a gorilla's, over my mouth. A third man seized my poor, crushed feet by the ankles. "Give us those things you tucked away in your blouse," said one. I drew them out and gave them to him. They carried me upstairs, past my room and to a bathroom that was like a closed well in the middle of the house.

It was lighted only by a skylight, which was protected, as were all my back windows, by an iron railing. One of the men drew some window cord from his pocket and then tied my hands and feet.

"Gag her!" commanded the quietest man of the three. Evidently the master mind of the trio. A heavy handkerchief was bound about my mouth. "Now blindfold her," said the ruffian. A coarse piece of cloth shut out the light. Thus I lay upon the bathroom floor five and a half terrible hours, while one of the men stood guard over me.

I could hear the others ransack the house. Now and then my guard spoke to me. "Want a drink of water?" he asked. I nodded, and he handed me a glass of water, tipping up my head and holding the glass himself. When I moaned from the pain of the broken bones in my feet he asked: "Shall I massage them?" I shook my head.

One moment he became dangerously bold. He said, "I will do something to you that was never done before." He bent over me and I felt the pressure of his mustached lips upon the tip of my nose. Then he laughed and went back to his post at the door.

The thieves worked all night. When my butler, Sasson, broke his bonds next morning it was 8 o'clock. For a half hour the house had been quiet. Sasson unbound Margaret, my maid. He said they had been bound and gagged earlier that night.

I had lost, roughly speaking, $760,000 worth of jewels and furs and gowns. My feet were broken by my fall. It was a poor wailing, moaning thing that they lifted from the bathroom floor and placed upon my disordered bed. I have not since walked a step. The doctors are asking me to be patient. They promise that I shall walk again. They say that I will be as I was before.

But they do not know. I shall never be as I was before. I am an utterly changed woman. The horrors of that night have made of me a woman as unlike myself as misgondetta is unlike an orchid.

I shrink now from what I had thought were the essentials of life. Yellow lunches, pink teas, rose dinners, violet suppers, life seen through the bottom of a green chateau glass—how empty, less than empty they seem now. A book beside the fire, the purring of the house cat on the rug, the quiet words of an unburied friend, these seem to me now the stable things in life, the things worth while.

As I lie here I have arranged to sell the things that once dominated my life. I have sold four automobiles. My once beloved Rolls-Royce is gone, not to return. I have an interest in two prosperous branches of a business, a garage and soda factory. Both are for sale. I have a villa at Long Beach. I am selling it. My house on Ninetieth street, too, is for sale. Nothing would induce me again to live in it.

The shock on what I call my night of terror has brought about a decision that nothing else would. I shall sell all that I have and be a free woman. While I struggled with my three captors they cursed me, but they also gave me a valuable suggestion. "This is all right," they said when they took my jewels, "but where is your money?"

"I haven't any in the house."

"Where is it?"

"In the bank."

The biggest of the ruffians said: "That's the best place to keep it."

With the mighty flash of truth I realized that that is the place to keep money. That is what I am doing.

I shall soon go to Paris. "Why?" you ask. Naturally, the woman who wants to escape the frivolity, the rule of things in her life, should not crave Paris. I do not. But there I have a home. One goes to the great centres to decide what other far-away points to visit. In my house across the street from that of Princess de Sagan (Anna Gould) I shall think further of my life and my plans.

But already I know what directions those plans will take. When I have disposed of more of the things that have weighted and wearied my life, though I know it not, I shall go to Smyrna. Thence to Egypt. I will not stay in Cairo. There I should see too many faces and jewels, would feel that steel look of covetousness that follows them as a shadow follows substance. I shall go into the Libyan desert and ride all day until I am so tired that I will slip exhausted from my horse at night. I shall sleep in the tent from sunset to sunrise. The yellow sands and the occasional green dot of the Garden of Allah will be my companions.

And then, when everything save the expanse of yellow sands and the arch of the deeply blue sky seem almost forgotten, when I am so far away as to have acquired perspective, I shall decide where I will spend the rest of my life.

It will be far from cities. Perhaps a ranch in Andalusia, such a ranch as I visited during my honeymoon. Or it may be on a ranch in Texas, where I shall see wide, sea-like plains, where I can ride all day, pursuing but never touching the tip of the ear.

The two greatest lessons in life! Yet I would never have learned them but for that awful night of terror in what will always be to me the haunted house. Haunted by my old self. Haunted by the pain of my broken feet. But illuminated by a great dazzling truth that things may choke and crush us.

I am selling everything I have save the simplest clothes and putting all my money in the bank. I shall live nowhere and everywhere in my search for quiet places of earth.

For just now I am afraid of everybody. The crime wave seems to have caught up not crooks, but persons of a higher walk of life, persons of our own so-called level. Wherever the look of greed and envy comes into eyes there such a crime as the robbery and torments of which I was the victim is possible.

I have found the way of escape.

"FATTY" GOT START MIMICKING COPS

Now the Men He Imitated Have Him in Jail Awaiting Trial for Murder

Los Angeles. — Fatty Arbuckle's intangible burlesque of policemen—the same police who are holding him now in San Francisco on a charge of murder—gave the film star his first chance to make a name for himself in the movies.

It was as a movie "extra" that Arbuckle got several chances to appear with Mack Sennett's comedy policemen, and his huge bulk and the natural comedy ability he portrayed attracted the attention of producers.

Walter Newman, Arbuckle's first employer, tells how he hired Fatty at $30 a week in a minor role in a melodrama. Newman, as the hero, was supposed to be dying at the big moment of the play. Other characters tipped in to the bedside. Not so Fatty. In the doorway he tripped clumsily, turned a somersault and landed so hard he broke the stage.

"His antics brought down the house—but we had to finish the play as a farce," says Newman.

Arbuckle, 34, was born at Smith Center, Kansas, and educated at Santa Ana, Cal. In 1905, while playing in musical comedies, he met and married Miss Minta Durfee, who was playing in the chorus. It was not until 1913 that he deserted the stage for the movies.

See Saturday's paper for Announcement of Our Formal Fall Opening.

THE PETTIBONE-PEABODY CO.

Fatty, a baseball fan, purchased the Vernon team of the Coast League, and one of his first moves was to put into effect a Ladies' Day on which fair fans were admitted free.

"Nothing makes a ballplayer extend himself like the hope that every circus catch will fill his mail with building of the eight minor state educational institutions.

A million dollars set aside to improve conditions in the insane hospitals and other state institutions.

And all these millions have been secured without adding one cent to the tax burdens of the people of the state.

Here is how it was accomplished. For years the moneyed interests of the country have been taking from the state its natural resources, such as timber, turpentine and resin, sulphur and salt, oil and gas, and paying almost nothing in return.

Parker's Plan.

Within a week after his nomination Parker called these interests to his office and said:

"Gentlemen, I am going to tax you two per cent on the value of the products you are taking from the soil. You didn't have anything to do with placing this great wealth in the state. The state is entitled to a per cent of your production for permit ting you to operate."

That is how the governance tax to use its technical name, was born. It means a tax of 2 per cent on production value of natural resources taken from the soil. That is, the oil interests pay 2 per cent on the market value of each barrel of oil produced in the state, the natural gas interests pay by the thousand cubic feet, salt and sulphur mines pay on the basis of tonnage produced at the market value at time of production and the timber interests on the value of the timber cut from the land.

Other states have followed the lead taken by Louisiana. The governor is kept busy addressing legislatures of other states as to the operation of his tax.

Violent-scented praise, the new owner announced. "Arbuckle off the movie lot, is a Beau Brummel."

"There's nothing in the world," he once said, "so repulsive as a fat man who isn't well dressed."

New Orleans—Remaking a state with a monkey wrench. That's what Governor John M. Parker, former vice presidential candidate on the Progressive ticket with the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, is doing in Louisiana.

The monkey wrench, as an instrument for rebuilding a commonwealth, entered into the general scheme of things the day after Parker was nominated for governor in January, 1920.

That day Parker found on his desk a heavy package, wrapped in coarse manila paper. It contained a three foot monkey wrench. There was a note "Use this on the Machine and the old order of things."

That's what Parker has been doing ever since. The result a little more than 18 months after he was presented with the monkey wrench, summed up shows.

war, is resulting in strenuous competition by women for men's jobs.

The situation is especially acute in the British Isles, where the first preliminary reports of the 1921 census show the females greatly outnumber the males, the city population vastly exceeds the country dwellers.

The total number of people in England and Wales is 37,885,342, of whom 18,082,220 are males and 19,803,022 females, compared with 1,179,276 in 1911.

Aside from the regular excess of female over the male births in England and Wales, and aside from the loss of population by emigration, the great disparity this time is caused by the huge losses of men during the war.

In Scotland the population is 4,882,285, of whom 2,348,403 are males and 2,533,882 females. The excess of females is 185,482.

This means that in Great Britain there are nearly 2,000,000 women who cannot hope to marry and have their own homes, unless they happen to marry foreigners, or emigrate.

Including the excess of Great Britain at that time, Europe had a total of nearly eight million more females than males.

The excess now is at least 10,000,000. All of the belligerent countries lost huge quantities of their men during the war. And in Russia, Poland and the new states carved out of Russia, there have been additional losses from famine and disease.

WEEK OF PARTIES AT LAWRENCE TO END FRIDAY NIGHT

Sororities and Fraternities Plan Elaborate Closing to
"Rushing" Period

When the doors of Lawrence girls' dormitories close Friday night sororities will cease "rushing" and a period of truce will exist between them and the girls whom they intend to ask to become members of their group. Midnight is the zero hour for truce between the fraternities and their rushes.

Since the Thursday after college opened, every Greek letter social organization on the campus has been entertaining prospective members at a series of parties and entertainments. Appleton women who are prominent socially have entertained the various groups in their homes. Among the fraternities this year practically all entertainments including theatre parties, smokers and dinner parties have been given by the groups themselves without the assistance of patrons.

Climax Friday

Beta Sigma Phi will have a chicken dinner at the fraternity house, 534 John-st. Phi Kappa Alpha will have a picnic at the George Wattergill cottage, Urawana beach. Phi Kappa Tau will have a theatre party followed by a smoker at the fraternity house, 519 Alton-st. Delta Iota and Theta Phi will also have parties. Other parties during the week included three yachting parties given by Prof. Ludolph Ahrens on the "Wanderer" for Phi Kappa Tau on Saturday, Monday and Wednesday, a banquet at Hotel Appleton on Thursday night, given by Sigma Phi Epsilon, a theatre party on Tuesday night given by Beta Sigma Phi, a dinner at the home of Wilmer

Two men were going through the college campus on their way to work. They had something on their minds and their conversation ran like this: "Ya, he offered to sell me his whole

"For $12 a gallon?" asked his companion in overalls.

Is Now Enjoying Perfect Health
—Gains 29 Pounds

"Tanlac has put me in perfect health and built me up twenty-nine pounds in weight besides, and I just feel like going up and down the streets telling everybody what it has done for me," was the statement made by Jack Robinson, 336 Brady-st., Milwaukee, Wis.

"No more light food for me now! Why, I used to have to live on such things as soft boiled eggs, toast, milk and the like, but since Tanlac has fixed me up so fine I sit down to a good meal of steak and potatoes and just anything else I want and give a good account of myself. I only wish I had gotten hold of Tanlac three years ago for it would have saved me two thousand dollars I paid out trying to get my health back.

"I suffered from indigestion and nervousness, and had no appetite at all, and was in such a weak, run-down condition I could not even get out of the house. I went West a couple of years for my health but it didn't do me any good and I hardly knew what to do next, as I could find nothing to help me.

"Well, my friends got me started on Tanlac, and five bottles of the medicine have put me in better health than I have been in ten years. I am entirely free from nervousness and indigestion, and feel just fine in every way. There is nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by Voigt Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

SPECIAL STAMPS NEEDED TO EXPEDITE DELIVERY

Package mailed at the postoffice for delivery in the city should bear a special delivery stamp if immediate delivery is desired. Postmaster Gustave Keller points out.

People have complained that packages mailed in the forenoon were not delivered till the next day. Mr. Keller explains that there is only one parcel post delivery daily and that packages mailed too late in the morning to go out in the regular delivery must wait till the next day. If sent by special delivery, they will be taken to the address soon after mailing.

Autumn Footwear of Exquisite Design

There is never a sign of abatement in the high standards of beauty set for women's footwear a season or so back. Graceful strapped oxfords for the street share honors with pleasing laced models for colder weather. There are the most charming of dress models in satin, suede and patent leather as well as kid.

Our stocks this fall include more exclusive designs than ever before. One striking model is of black patent leather stitched with white. The effect is unusually pleasing. A pump of black satin has an embroidered design on the tongue.

Many new oxfords are especially commendable for grace of fashioning this season. The colors are good and smarter fall footwear can not be imagined.

Prices range from $7. to $13.50.
